About Us

In Ireland there are over 1,400 children with life limiting and life threatening conditions, such as cerebral palsy, profound brain damage, meningitis, HIV and cancers. Aside from the work we do, there is a limited palliative care programme available through other agencies.

And with over 354 children's deaths a year in Ireland, we also desperately need a children's hospice.

The Children's Sunshine Home's Hospice Project was launched to address both of these issues.

Ireland's first Children's Hospice called LauraLynn House will be able to support over 300 families across Ireland every year. The LauraLynn House Paediatric Palliative Care unit will provide eight bedrooms along with living facilities as well as four family apartments, to enable relatives to be close to their children. These units will be an essential component of the Palliative Care Programme so desperately needed. A further three units, each with eight bedrooms and living accommodation, will be built at Leopardstown to provide more Respite Care and Residential Care.

The first sod was turned on LauraLynn House at Children's Sunshine Home on 29th September 2009. We hope to open in early 2011
